

Octave then Fifth Harmonics

The image displays ten horizontal musical staves, each featuring a treble clef at the beginning. Above each staff is a vertical line with two small circles, one near the top and one near the bottom. On the first staff, there is a solid black dot on the second line from the bottom. On the second staff, there is a solid black dot on the third line from the bottom. On the third staff, there is a solid black dot on the fourth line from the bottom, and a hollow circle with a vertical line through it above the staff. On the fourth staff, there is a solid black dot on the fifth line from the bottom. On the fifth staff, there is a solid black dot on the fourth line from the bottom, and a hollow circle with a vertical line through it above the staff. On the sixth staff, there is a solid black dot on the third line from the bottom. On the seventh staff, there is a solid black dot on the second line from the bottom, and a hollow circle with a vertical line through it above the staff. On the eighth staff, there is a solid black dot on the first line from the bottom. On the ninth staff, there is a solid black dot on the second line from the bottom, and a hollow circle with a vertical line through it above the staff. On the tenth staff, there is a solid black dot on the third line from the bottom, and a hollow circle with a vertical line through it above the staff.